
If you are one of the lucky ones who got their hands on Call of Duty: Modern Warfare 3, congratulations! But if you are trying to get MW3 on Steam for Windows, you might find that the game refuses to create an appid.txt file. Don't worry, we have a quick and easy solution that will help you create this appid.txt file. First, open Notepad or Notepad++. Then copy the following into the empty page: Then save it as appid.txt inside your MW3 folder. If you are using Steam, the default directory would be C:\Program Files\Steam\steamapps\common\Call of Duty Modern Warfare 3\. Now restart Steam and MW3 and see if the problem is fixed!

Note: If you still can't get MW3 working on steam, then try downloading it from GreenManGaming and see if that fixes the issue for your PC.

Title:Modern Warfare 3 PC Patch 3/8/12 - V1.05 Within the article, they state that MW3 and Black Ops recently released to PC and that there was a patch for each online. However, they also state that "the PC version of Modern Warfare 3 has received a number of major updates since launch". For example, this version of the game supports dedicated servers and allows up to 64 players rather than the console versions' limit of 24. This patch is expected to make the game more compatible with other versions which will allow for an easier matchmaking process.
